COMMISSIONER AGAIN CALLED.

Examined Regarding His Handling of the Police Pension

When the Senate Police Investigation Committee resumed its work in Part II. of the Common Pleas Court this morn ing, the court-room was packed with crowd of eager spectators, while hundreds of others besieged the doorway it

The sensational testimony given yes terday, and the expectation that more of the same kind would be produced to-day, was the attraction of the public. ice Commissioner McClave, who was on the rack yesterday, was one of the arliest arrivals this morning. He came efore his counsel, De Lancey Nicoll, and sat alone at the long table nervously sorting over a bundle of papers. He expects to disprove the accusations of als former son-in-law, young Gideon Granger, to-day,

Capt. Max Schmittberger said he had been subpoensed as a witness. In ad-dition to the counsel who appeared yes-anxlous.

It was soon learned that Granger was not in court, and Mr. Goff made the announcement to the Committee that he had seen him at a late hour last night and that the witness was being sought for by the Sergeant-at-Arms. "Granger promised me faithfully that he would be here promptly at 9.30," said Mr. Goff, "and I can't understand his absence."

Wants Granger Shut Out. Wants Granger Shnt Out.

Mr. Nicoll at once jumped up and told the Committee that he and his clients had a consultation last night, and they had agreed that Granger would never appear before the Committee again.

"I mean," said Mr. Nicoll, correcting himself, "that he would never dare to come here and repeat the lies and insults which he offered yesterday to honest and honorable gentlemen. And," he added "he never will I am convinced." Chairman Lexow said that Granger would certainly be brought before the Committee again if the courts could compel his attendance.

Mr. Nicoll moved that Granger's testimony be stricken out, but Chairman Lexow denied this motion. He said it could be renewed if the attempt to bring Granger before the Committee again should be unsuccessful.

After the Chairman had called "Gidon Granger," and there was no response, the Committee decided to proocad with the examination of Commissioner McClave, and he was called to the witness stand.

McClave Again Called.

McClave Again Called.

He was first asked about the account he formerly kept as Treasurer and trustee of the Police Pension fund in the Bank of North America. This had been withdrawn about thre years.

Q.—Mr. McClave you have said that your books show that you made $100,000 in your lumber business in 1852. Where are these books now? A.—They were nearly a $83. destroyed in the fire at my yards in April, 1853.

Q.—Then there is nothing to show now that you made such a profit? A.—Nothing, except my accounts in the bank.

Q.—What bank is that? A.—The Bowery Bank.

Q.—Blow did you usually make deposits there?

A.—Clusually in checks.

Q.—Blo you not sometimes deposit there large sums in bills? A.—I don't know what you mean by large sums.

sums in bills? A.—I don't know what you mean by large sums.
Q.—In sums of $1,000 or more. Don't your deposite slip shew that?
Mr. McClave said there might have been such deposits, but they were out of the ordinary line of his business. He said he remembered he once got a large sum in bills from the Barnum & Bailey circus people.
Q.—Who made these deposits for you? A.—Desaily my man "Pat." or some other clerk.

The largest amount ever paid by the circus people in a single year was about $7,000 or $8,000, as far as the witness could remember, and these amounts were always paid in bills.
Cannot Hemember Everything.

Casnot Remember Everything.

This was the case in 1890. Mr. McClave could not remember who made out the deposit slips for these large sums in cash, but thought it must have been his bookkeeper.

The witness became impatient at this questioning, and finally stated that he could not recollect all the details of his business.

"Well, you have already told us that about six times," said Mr. Goff.

I certainly received it, but as I said before, all my books were destroyed by the fire in 1881.

Mr. McClave said that he recollected that large packages of $1 and $2 bills had come in from the circus company in payment of their accounts. He never got paid until the Spring after the circus opened, and the bills were probably those taken in at the box-office. He received no large amounts in bills in the course of his business from any other source.

"It will not rain steadily all day long," he said, "nor will it rain continuously all day to-morrow, but we will get the next thing to it. It will rain many times during the day, to-night and to-morrow—the kind of showers which keep one on the tiptoe of expectancy, looking for the sunshine, and just when the rain seems to let up for good it will come down again.

"It is the most uncertain kind of weather," added Mr. Dunn, "and the same unsettled condition exists all over the Central and Middle States. The high winds, however, are about over. One feature of the case decided by the General Term of the Supreme Court that has perhaps been lost sight of, is that the Reilly-Gray suit is a "fake" one.
